

Kentucky Commission on Community Volunteerism and Service

Survey Opportunity

Dear Shannon,

The Kentucky Commission on Community Volunteerism and Service (KCCVS) prides ourselves on supporting volunteerism whenever possible. Although the KCCVS does not directly link volunteers with local opportunities, our programs such as our annual Make A Difference Day food drive competitions, year-round Volunteer Recognition Program and the annual Governor's Awards for Volunteerism and Service, shows our commitment to Kentucky volunteers.

In that spirit, we would like to share an opportunity for volunteer managers and administrators to share their opinion on current trends in volunteering and the impact in their communities and organizations. Nancy MacDuff, trainer, consultant and author on VolunteerToday.com invites you to participate in the survey - details below.

Episodic Volunteering Survey

Episodic volunteering has grown significantly in the last five years. Managers of volunteers are creating positions for people who can only serve for a short time. What has been beneficial or challenging about this shift? Does it bring more volunteers to an organization?

If you complete this survey you can help us learn more about the shift in volunteering to shorter service and then to strategies to aid managers of volunteers in working with this type of volunteering.

Gather your numbers and opinions...we need both. Go to the SurveyMonkey link below and help us learn more about episodic volunteering in your organization.
