OVERVIEW AND NEED

Children and youth with special health care needs (CYSHCN) are a diverse group of children ranging from children with chronic medical conditions such as epilepsy to children with autism. It includes children with more complex health issues such as congenital heart disease and spina bifida.

Overall CYSHCN are defined as children birth to 21 years of age who have or are at increased risk for a chronic physical, developmental, behavioral, or emotional condition and who require health and related services of a type or amount beyond that required by children generally.

CYSHCN may have difficulties with access to care and quality medical care especially if they reside in a rural area. Community based services are often difficult to find and transition to adulthood and adult systems of care are not optimal. With an emphasis on prevention and cost containment there is a potential for short and long-term savings within a system that both ensures access and coordination of services.

The Kentucky Office for Children with Special Health Care Needs is looking for innovative ideas to address these issues and help to develop comprehensive systems of care and support among health care and other child services.

The Kentucky Office for Children with Special Health Care Needs (OCSHCN) has a mission to enhance the quality of life for Kentucky’s children with special health care needs through quality service, leadership, advocacy, education, and collaboration.
SNAP! GUIDELINES

Project submissions should demonstrate an innovative process for the delivery of health care or related services and should result in health and health services improvements for children and youth with special health care needs (CYSHCN) that reside in Kentucky. Areas of interest are listed below:

- Increased access to care
- Improved health outcomes
- Innovative service delivery
- Decreased health disparities
- Improved quality of care
- Improved transitions to adulthood
- Increased community-based services and supports
- Development of a rural healthcare network

Projects should be novel, such as creation of new collaborations or gap filling services in existing programs. Programs involving expansion of existing projects will not be accepted. Projects with clearly defined measurable outcomes and plans for sustainability will be ranked highly. Collaboration projects should bring together key parts of a rural or metro health care delivery system, particularly those entities that may not have collaborated in the past under a formal relationship, to work together to establish and improve local capacity and coordination of care. Projects should prospectively collect data on outcomes and quality measures. Funded projects will be required to submit quarterly progress reports and an end of project report. Suggested quality measures include: Quality of care, family centered care, provider collaboration, successful transitions. Data reporting suggestions include but are not limited to: diagnosis, ED uses, hospitalizations, preventive care visits, chronic disease management visits, specialist visits, improvement to access to care.

FUNDING AMOUNTS

Up to $15,000 reimbursed

WHO CAN APPLY

Local governments, school or special districts, nonprofit organizations, and universities may apply. Entities that will gain a profit from their proposed project will not be considered.
